

ABSTRACT

The invention is a table base having a base, column and spider plate. Each end of the column is threaded on its external surface, and the spider plate and the base each have a threaded aperture adapted to receive the threaded ends of the column.